
What tubing is suitable for use in a knitted reactor coil system featuring isopropanol, concentrated HCl, concentrated NaOH, copper, and luminol?

Alcohols such as isopropanol, acids such as concentrated HCl, bases such as concentrated NaOH, minerals such as copper and reagents such as luminol are chemically compatible with our PTFE, knitted reactor coils. The appropriate length, OD, and ID of the tubing will depend on the specifics of the application.

More information about Knitted Reactor Coils, KRC