
What is an “inlet sinker” in HPLC?

I am not exactly sure, but “inlet sinker” has been used as another name for stainless steel sparging stones or stainless steel inlet filters. This term may be used since the stones are heavy and sink to the bottom of the mobile phase inlet bottles.

Click HERE for HPLC Mobile Phase Filtering Ordering Information Including Sparging Stones